

MSU Theriogenology Club

With support from Michigan Lama Association, Michigan Veterinary Medical Association and Department of Large Animal Clinical Sciences

Would like to present

Dr. Ahmed Tibary

Dr. Tibary is widely published, having written numerous books, contributed many chapters in veterinary medicine texts, and is widely recognized as a master teacher in theriogenology. He was also recognized as the 2011 Theriogenologist of the Year at the annual theriogenology conference held earlier this month.

Please join us in welcoming Dr. Tibary as he gives the following presentations to the MSU veterinary medicine student community.

- Developing a Camelid Reproductive Health Program
 - Free for students with CVM Student ID (you must present your badge)
 - $20 for Veterinarians, Technicians and Owners/Breeders of camelids
 - 6:00 – 8: 00 PM, Friday, September 9, G-150 VMC

Any questions please contact Kayla Stomack (stomackk@cvm.msu.edu)